

FOOD COVERAGE

We understand the risks of working in the food business and can respond to the unique needs of our clients in managing risks, including product recall and crisis management.

According to the USDA, an average of more than 130 recalls affecting tens of millions of pounds of food took place each of the last five years. Whether you are a processor, distributor or brewer, food and product safety is only one of many risks you face. Risks that, if not addressed properly, can severely damage your reputation and business.

Hylant's dedicated food expert team exists exclusively to serve the food business community, so that you get the best expertise from professionals who understand both the business of food and insurance. We will be with you every step of the way.

Our experts will work with you to understand your risk management and insurance needs and will provide you with the data you need to make solid business decisions.

In addition to solutions for product recall, crisis management and general liability, Hylant offers a wealth of other essential resources.

Risk, if not addressed properly, can severely damage your reputation and business. Hylant's team of experts is prepared to assist you in finding the best program for your business to address issues such as:

Product Recall

Our customized approach to identifying and profiling risk and modeling solutions enables you to make educated, informed decisions on the optimal product recall management program and insurance coverage. We stay by your side, providing vital updates about market changes, developing exposures, new products and emerging legislation.

Crisis Management

With an understanding of your goals and desired business outcomes, we work with you to design a unique risk management program that includes tailored insurance coverage aligned with your needs. One focused on your financial and operational goals with flexibility for change and sustainability.

Property

When fire, natural disaster or theft destroys the physical assets of your business and disrupts your ability to continue working, you want one thing: to get back to business. Our job is to help you do that.

Environmental Liability

Pollution-related liability costs can add up quickly, seriously damaging your bottom line. Environmental insurance can help you manage your exposures, but only if it's the right type of insurance, aligned properly with the risks you face.

Workers' Compensation

Workers' compensation is changing rapidly and becoming more and more complex. You need someone who understands the ever-changing workers' compensation environment and can simplify your life by making it easier for you to understand. Working with your Hylant workers' compensation insurance and risk management expert, you can drive down the total cost of risk for you and your company.

Employee Benefits and Wellness Programs

We understand the challenges you face as an employer because we're one, too. Continued pressure from healthcare inflation, increasing compliance needs, tighter budgets and changing workforces can all affect your business and your employee benefits plan. Rest assured, your Hylant team of employee benefits experts will work closely with you to tailor your employee benefits program to your unique business needs and goals.

Claims Management and Advocacy

Your Hylant claim management specialist is your advocate, supporting your position to deliver the best result working with your insurance carrier or third-party claims administrator. As your advocate, we knowledgeably walk you through the claims process so that you understand what is happening, what to expect and who is responsible for doing what. We work with your carrier or third-party claims administrator to make sure your claim is acknowledged promptly, processed efficiently and resolved fairly.

And More

Your Hylant team can also assist you with branding and labeling concerns, business continuity and supply chain management, insurance certificate issuance, contract reviews, vendor certificate of insurance management and compliance tracking and monitoring, among others.
